SUCCESSFUL PICNICS—SOME HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS—HOW TO RENOVATE LACES AND RIBBONS—LEAF STITCH EMBROIDERY—HOW THE STITCH IS DONE—THE MATERIALS TO USE—HIGH NECKBAND DISAPPEARS—HOME-MADE EMERY CUSHION—BLEACH FOR DISCOLORED THROAT—CONCERNING THE BASHFUL CHILD.

SUCCESSFUL PICNICS.

Some people don't like picnics—they say that they are dull and tiresome affairs, which involve a great deal of trouble and very little pleasure. If your picnics have, so far, been like this, it is probably because you have not managed them properly. It is, I think, a great mistake to go picnicking with a spirit stove on which you hope to boil the water. If it is large enough to be of any use it will weigh a tremendous lot; and, if it is one of those little toy-like things, it will only be responsible for a mere thimbleful of water.

Of course, if the weather has been so wet that you have no hopes of collecting suitable firing, you must take a stove. But, in fairly dry weather, you had better build the fire for yourself.

Lay it on several large stones—not flat on the ground. You must put stones at the bottom so that the leaves and sticks are raised up, and there is a good current of air under them, which will keep them in a glow.

A sunshade or umbrella is a most useful thing at a picnic, as it makes an excellent screen which protects your sulky fire from the wind. Set light to your pile at the side from which the wind is blowing, so that the flames may be puffed across on to the sticks which have not yet caught.

A picnic kettle should be as light and thin as possible, so that it may boil quickly. One of those little tin things from a five and ten-cent store does splendidly.

The your tea up in a bit of muslin and drop it into the kettle. This will save you the trouble carrying a teapot. You should attach a string to the muslin bag, so that the leaves may be fished out again when the brew is strong enough.

Don't take sandwiches for lunch or cut bread and butter for tea. Anything in slices is sure to curl up at the edges and get all dry and hard before you want to eat it. It is far better to take the loaf or some rolls, and a piece of butter in a little jar or glass tightly closed and wrapped with a wet cloth to keep cool.

HELPFUL SUNDRIES.

Lace scarfs and curtains that have been tinted cream color may be restored to a beautiful whiteness by being soaked for a night in salt and water. A tablespoonful of salt to a quart of water is about the quantity, but there is no fixed rule for that.

When black or colored silk ribbons have become dull and crumpled, dip each piece individually into cold water, don't wring them at all, but after they have dripped a little, lay them on to a flat board or wooden table, and with a small soft wad of cloth smooth them out till all the wrinkles have disappeared, then leave them to dry. When dry, they will have regained their lustre and stiffness and look like new. A black silk dress, if unpicked, may be restored in the same way.

The strongest nerves are often jarred by the slamming or creaking of a door. All such annoyances may be avoided if the hinges and locks have a drop or two of oil applied occasionally; a small machine oil can is the best to use for applying the oil. Work the hinge or lock backwards and forwards a few times after it is oiled, then wipe with a piece of rag.

LEAF STITCH.

Of late embroiderers have found a new use for the popular knot stitch embroidery, namely, for babies' bibs. Of course, nobody likes to put a lot of fine hand work on something that is going to receive hard usage, but every mother that must needs have Master Baby at the table, owing to there being either one maid or none in the household, will appreciate the necessity for the possession of a few "company" bibs.

A half dozen ordinary Turkish towel bibs will do very well for every day, but for the bachelor guest who may not take the same delight in a baby learning to feed itself as the fond parents do, a few really nice bibs should be kept on hand.

One recommendation of knot stitch embroidery for this purpose is that it is carried out in cotton thread, and another that once you have mastered the stitch it really progresses very quickly.

How the Stitch is Done.

There are three ways of working knot stitch. The simplest consists of two back stitches, lying side by side, and covering the same threads. The second is called knotted knot stitch. This is formed by one chain stitch and one back stitch. The first is made by inserting the thread into the stuff, putting the needle in again at the same place, and bringing it out a little farther on so that the little loop of thread is under the point of the needle. A small back stitch secures the loop.

The third method is known as twisted knot stitch. Working the thread is held down by the thumb close to the spot where it was first brought out. It is then twisted twice around the needle, the needle turned from left to right, passed through the fabric again and drawn out in position for the next stitch.

The Materials to Use. You will find that a good quality huck or a coarse white linen makes an excellent foundation for this embroidery, which should be carried out in cotton threads.

Of course, you could equally well use cream linen or fairly heavy case material, if you prefer one of these materials.

As I always spend a good deal of my time in the wash tub, it is absolutely necessary that you should make them of materials which can be easily laundered. You may have perfect confidence in the ones I have mentioned, if they are first put into a tepid lather and afterwards rinsed in clean, tepid water, hung up, and carefully ironed while still a little damp. It is a great mistake to allow washed embroidery to lie about any length of time in a wet condition.

HIGH NECKBANDS DISAPPEAR.

A notable feature of the season's fashions is the disappearance of the high neckband, which has had such a long run of popularity, for all the latest models in costumes and blouses are slightly open at the throat. Undoubtedly this is very becoming to anyone with a pretty throat, but if the neck and chin are not well modeled it will be wise to fill in the V-shaped opening with a transparent chemise of lace or net, or to wear a ruffle of tulle or feathers out of doors.

HOME-MADE EMERY CUSHION.

This little novelty should be made in quite a small size, in fact, very little larger than the fruit it is intended to represent.

It is carried out in crimson velvet and cut out in two pieces and sewn together at the edges and well stuffed with emery powder. Stitches of black cotton run through the velvet at equal spaces apart imitate the seeds on the surface of the strawberry and should be worked in the material before the pincushion is made up.

For the stalk, a piece of wire is used, twisted round and round with narrow dark green ribbon, and the leaves at the base of the stalk are cut out of green paper and fastened to the velvet round the stem with glue.

This little cushion should prove an attractive article to prepare for sale in a bazaar, or a pile of them would look very effective upon a stall arranged upon a large dish; they find a ready sale, as they are so useful to polish a needle that becomes sticky when working; in fact, no work basket is complete without one.

CONCERNING THE BASHFUL CHILD.

If parents would always bear in mind the fact that the troubles of childhood, while they may seem ever so trivial to us grown-ups, are very real to the little ones, and call for consideration and sympathy, instead of amused laughter or critical remonstrance, one of the greatest lessons in child culture would be learned.

The bashful child is constantly misunderstood, constantly reproved for omitting certain courteous acts, his young soul would delight in performing save for the paralyzing self-consciousness which holds him in a vise. He is too bashful to explain what he feels, even if he could, which is not at all probable, since little children have no gift in self-analysis.

How little we can know at best of all that must pass through their busy, active little brains, whose point of view is so different from ours.

Never hold up other children as examples to the bashful child; such a course only intensifies his consciousness of imaginary defects, and increases his belief that all the rest of the world, his little world, shares your feeling concerning his shortcomings.

BLEACH FOR DISCOLORED THROAT.

Yes, these blemishes are very unsightly, and no time should be lost in treating them.

Use the following once a day on the neck: Sublimed sulphur, one dram; oil of eucalyptus, 5 drops; ointment of oxide of zinc, one ounce; ointment of rose water, one ounce. Wash off the afflicted parts twice a week with tincture of green soap and hot water; after this renew the application above.

Use an eyebrow pencil the shade of your hair, rather than resort to a stain. Rub a little vaseline into the brows every day.

HORTICULTURALISTS REPORT SUBMITTED.

J. Edward Taylor, secretary of the Utah State Horticultural commission, who has returned home from Helena, Mont., where he had been on official business, yesterday submitted a report to the governor.

Mr. Taylor's mission to Montana was in connection with the quarantine declared by the Treasurer state authorities against Utah alfalfa, on the ground that it is infected by weevil.

Mr. Taylor reports that he found the members of the Montana Horticultural commission inclined to be fair in the matter, and he anticipates no difficulty in having the embargo removed after a conference between the Montana and Utah officials. This conference will be held in this city at an early date.

MENTAL HOSPITAL REPORT.

Provo, Aug. 15.—At the meeting of the state board of insanity held here yesterday, Medical Superintendent D. H. Calder submitted a table of the movement of patients for July, which shows 232 men and 206 women in the state mental hospital, June 30; ten men and four women were admitted, three men and one woman were discharged, and two men and one woman died, leaving remaining, July 31, 237 men and 208 women. In addition to these there are thirteen male and fourteen female feeble-minded—a total of 270—under the care of the hospital. Appropriations in the amount of $5071.50 were made for the expenses for July, of which $5441.04 is for maintenance, the remainder being for improvements and repairs. Fire Chief Eph Hovatter reported the fire department of the institution in good condition for fighting and preventing fires.

AGED WOMAN DROWNS HERSELF IN CANAL.

Midvale, Aug. 15.—Apparently weary of life because of long illness from rheumatism, Mrs. Marie Quist, aged 71 years, drowned herself in the canal here some time last night. Her body was taken from the water with in half a mile of her Midvale residence about 9 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Quist was a widow, who since the death of her husband here a number of years ago, had lived alone upon her little property in this town. She was in the habit of going to her neighbor, Charles Hoaglund, each evening for a bucket of milk, and her failure to appear last night resulted in an investigation, discovery that her home was vacant, and the formation of a searching party headed by Marshal Stokes.

The recently uttered threats of Mrs. Quist that she would drown herself because of her apparently incurable malady directed suspicion toward the canal near her home, and after hours of search the body was recovered.

Acting Coroner J. J. Williams viewed the body and decided that no inquest was necessary.

Two sisters, living in Sweden, have been notified of the woman's end, but so far as known Mrs. Quist has no relatives in this country.

The body is held at the undertaking establishment of S. M. Taylor & Co., pending arrangements for the funeral.

ENGINEERING FEAT OF FORESTERS

Washington, Aug. 16.—An engineering feat that has called for special commendation from Chief Forester Graves was reported today to the forest service from the Sitgreaves national forest in Arizona. A look-out tower built entirely of logs and thrusting its bulk 115 feet into the air, was constructed by forest rangers entirely without the aid of hoisting apparatus. The work was accomplished entirely by unassisted man-muscle and pure strength.

Talk of the wonders worked by the ancient Egyptians in their pyramid construction, said a forest service official, "Pharaoh's artisans didn't have very much not possessed by the forest riders of your Uncle Sam."

The timber for the construction of the tower was procured on the spot. The tower will be used in watching for the outbreak of forest fires.

PRICE OF BEEF TO BE HIGHER

Washington, Aug. 16.—Sharp increases in the prices of fresh beef are expected to follow the drought that is scouring the cattle-growing states of Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma and officials of the department of agriculture are not concealing their anxiety over the outlook. Their apprehension is increased by unfavorable reports said to have been received from agents now in South America concerning the condition of cattle there.

In anticipation of the increased meat imports that would follow the passage of the tariff measure, Dr. A. B. Melvin was sent by the department to South America to observe the manner in which cattle was slaughtered and meat packed in those countries. He is said to have reported that a serious hoof and mouth epidemic is raging in Argentina, the principal meat growing country of South America and this necessarily would bar the entrance of such meat to the United States.

Australia, in the event of the serious shortage is expected to furnish much of the meat consumed by Americans in the immediate future. This supply may be limited, however, because of Great Britain's demands if Argentina fails her market.

RED LARGE PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Festered and Came to Head. Scratching Made Sores. Caused Disfigurement. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face Now Clear.

1413 E. Genesee Ave., Saginaw, Mich.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me of a very bad disease of the face without leaving a scar. Pimples broke out all over my face, red and large. They festered and came to a head. They itched and burned and caused me to scratch them and make sores. They said they were seed warts. At night I was restless from itching. When the barber would shave me my face would bleed terribly. Then scabs would form afterwards, then they would drop off and the so-called seed warts would come back again. They were on my face for about nine months and the trouble caused disfigurement while it lasted.

"One day I read in the paper of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it was so much value to me that I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment at the drug store. In about ten days my face began to heal up. I kept on using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a very short time after, the scabs dropped off the red spots where they were vanished also. My face is now clear of the warts and not a scar is left." (Signed) LeRoy C. O'Brien, May 12, 1913.

Cuticura Soap 25c and Cuticura Ointment 25c are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." *Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

TIDE SWEEPS BOY INTO BIG SEWER

New York, Aug. 16.—Four-year-old Lule Petrolelec fell from a row boat into Fresh pond creek, near Jamaica bay, late yesterday, and a few minutes later the incoming tide swept him up into a big sewer, far under the city, where he was lost.

A throng of people watched until late last night the spectacular attempts of various city departments to get the body. Fishmen were placed at the outlet of the sewer and a battery of searchlights was played upon the scene, but to no avail. The sewer stretches across the Meadows a mile and a half and is almost level, so that the tideswaters really extend up the entire distance. The receding tide does not carry the body out, men will enter the sewer to search for it.

PROTECTION OF FISH AND GAME

Washington, Aug. 6.—Designed for the good guidance of those seeking confirmation of the game laws of various states, the biological survey of the department of agriculture today issued a directory containing the names and addresses of the various state game commissions and wardens, together with like information concerning the many associations devoted to the protection of wild animal life. The directory has been brought up to July 15.

"The most important changes during the last year," says the foreword of the directory, "were the creation of the office of game and fish commissioner in Florida, the reorganization of the commissions in Connecticut, Montana, Illinois, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Washington and the organization of the Indiana, Massachusetts and Minnesota fish and game leagues.

"In 45 states and territories the enforcement of the game laws is entrusted to game commissioners, wardens or other state officers; in Mississippi and Nevada to county wardens; in Virginia to city and magisterial district wardens; in Arkansas to sheriffs similar to the local office and in the District of Columbia to the metropolitan police."

Commenting on the growth of societies for the protection of fish and game, such organizations now co-operating in this work in 31 states.

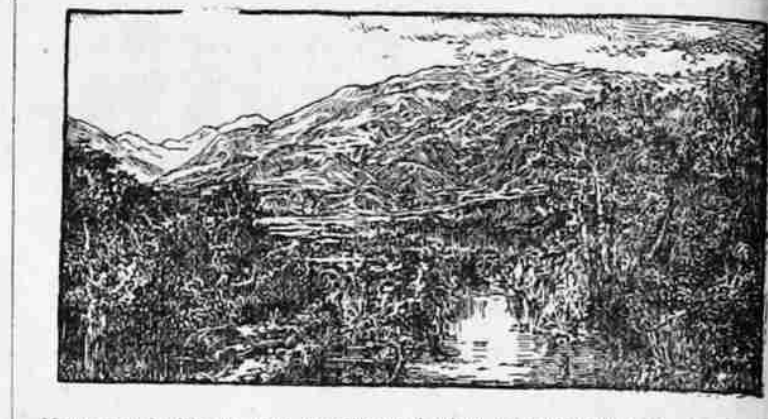

CLEVER JEWELRY STORE ROBBERY

London, Aug. 16.—Jewelry worth fifty thousand dollars was stolen from a hotel in Llandudne, a watering place in North Wales, yesterday. The thieves escaped in an automobile. The gems were owned by a jeweler who exhibited them in a show case at the hotel. They were in charge of a girl who brought them from a bank every day in a bag. On arrival yesterday, she put the bag

AMERICAN LANDSCAPE PAINTERS
"Learn One Thing Every Day"

No. 6. F. E. Church, "The Heart of the Andes"
Copyright, 1912, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

Many people like to find something unusual or striking in a picture. To these the paintings of Frederic Edwin Church makes a special appeal. The range of Church's art is wide, and covers subjects chosen from many parts of the world.

Before cameras were invented nobody could tell, unless he went there himself, just what a tropical forest looked like. Therefore, when Church decided to paint something mysterious and wonderful he traveled to South America, among the mountains and through the jungles of which few people in northern countries had any idea. It was not strange that critics should praise the landscapes he painted on his return, scenes by moonlight across a luxuriant growth of palms and creepers, or high mountain peaks with animals of the tropics lurking about the foreground. So enthusiastically were his canvases received both at home and abroad that the young artist soon revisited those regions, and made further studies which met with equal success.

The greatest of his South American works is "The Heart of the Andes," a picture known to everyone. A journey to Labrador gave him new opportunities, quite the opposite of what he had experienced in the tropics. We have the result in "Icebergs," one of his best canvases. For him nothing was too difficult. Soon afterward Church left America, made southern Europe his study, and went on from there to Palestine, "The Parthenon," a picture showing the magnificent temple in the middle distance, with no other object prominent enough to lessen the majesty of its ancient, ruined architecture, is the most famous record of this European period in the artist's life.

Church painted on very large canvases, and was painstaking to the smallest detail. A pioneer in the landscape art of America, he had all the directness and bigness of the pioneer. "The Heart of the Andes" and the "Niagara" gave him a permanent place in the history of American painting.

Every day a different human interest story will appear in the Standard. You can get a beautiful image reproduction of the above picture, with five others, equally attractive, 7x9 1/2 inches in size, with this week's "Mentor." In "The Mentor" a well known authority covers the subject of the pictures and stories of the week. Readers of the Standard and the Mentor will know art, literature, history, science, and travel, and own exquisite pictures. On sale at Spargo's Book store.
